

Save the Date

Thursday, October 20, 2011

State of the Bay: Past, Present and Future - Revisited

The National Park Service, New York City Department of Environmental Protection and Brooklyn College are pleased to announce the State of the Bay: Past, Present and Future scientific symposium on Thursday, October 20th.

This event is one of a series of symposia anticipated to occur every few years to highlight on-going and emerging research. We invite you to join us at the Brooklyn College Student Center for a day of informative presentations on the research efforts to improve water quality and ecological habitat in Jamaica Bay.

Presentations will be moderate to advanced in content. Speakers and additional details to follow for registrants.

Space is limited. RSVP to jbsymposiumrsvp@dep.nyc.gov no later than September 30.

For more information please visit:
<http://jamaicabay.ciesin.columbia.edu/stateofthebay2011>

