

Transform your construction site with urban canvas

Development is necessary for the expansion and economic growth of New York City, but construction often undermines the beauty of our urban landscape. Through the urbancanvas Pilot Program, an initiative to promote the installation of artwork on construction sites, contractors and building owners can play an active role in the beautification of streetscapes for our residents and visitors.

Artwork, selected by the public in the urbancanvas Design Competition, is now available for use on temporary protective structures such as sidewalk sheds, construction fences, and scaffolds.
